Something for EVERYONE

When you go to the park, what do you do?

A) Sit in the sun?

B) Head for the ballfield, the tennis court, or other sports facilities?

C) Just relax and read?

D) Have a picnic?

E) Let the kids play on the equipment while you rest in the sun and read?

If you're like most Upland park users, you picked 'B', say local park planners who are focusing on quality, not quantity, these days.

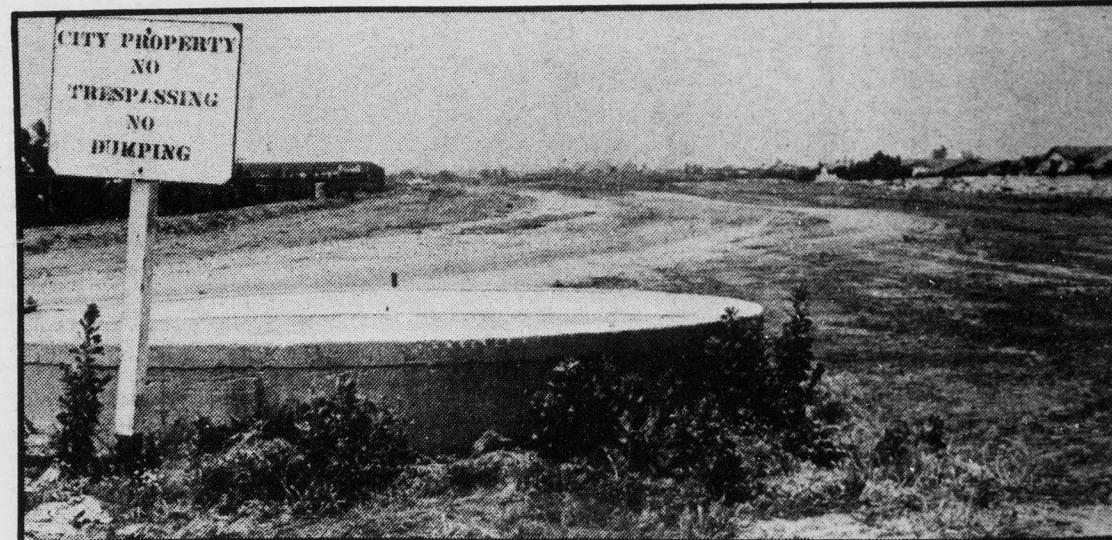

City Recreation and Parks Department officials have had a philosophic change of heart and now place a greater emphasis on parks developed for active people than neighborhood parks containing mostly trees and grass.

It's a change of heart prompted in part by a lack of cash in the city coffers.

"Due to financial constraints and other factors like changing needs in the community, we're leaning towards taking what we have and improving it instead of acquiring," said recreation director Larry Thornburg.

For the last 10 years or so, the notion of the "neighborhood park" was very popular, he notes. "These five-acre spots in the residential areas that in many cases are nothing but open grassy areas were considered vital but this is changing. Many of the ones that have been improved are never used."

For this reason, Thornburg and the recreation committee have proposed selling off some of the areas that are presently undeveloped and using the funds generated to improve parks that are high-usage, active areas.

According to the General Plan, Upland has 234.5 acres designated for local parks. City parks, Thornburg said, include 134.3 acres in developed parks, 86.2 in acquired acreage and 13 acres to be acquired.

There are 13 developed park locations and 10 acquired, but undeveloped, locations. Two unnamed and unacquired park locations with a total of 13 acres are also included in the General Plan.

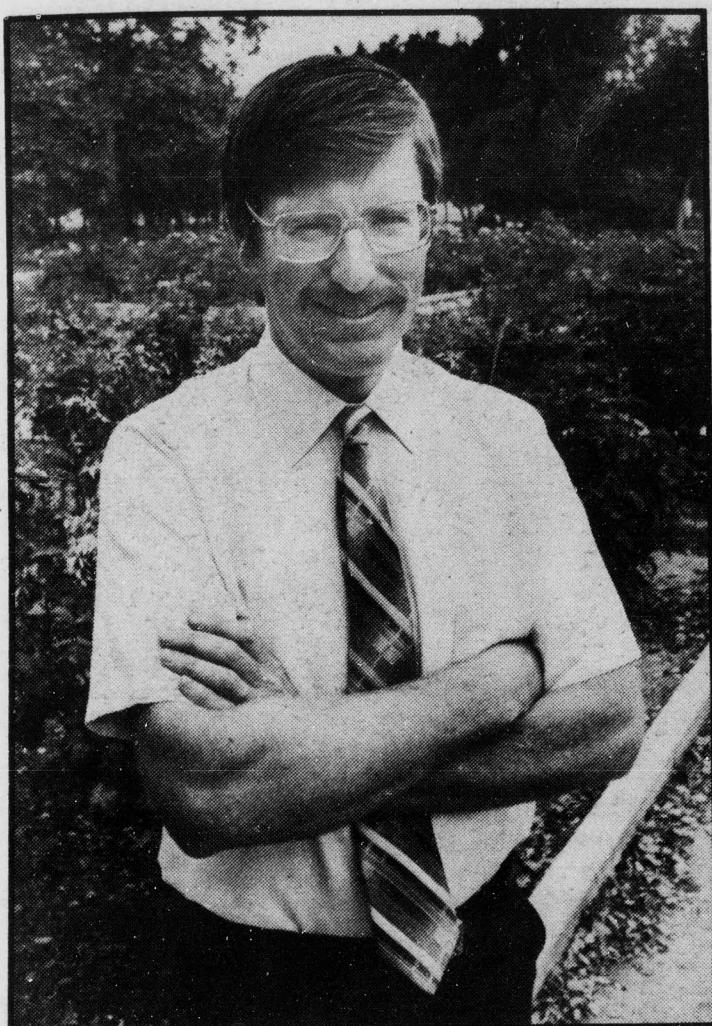

"Right now, our focus is on the need for more active parks instead of passive areas," Thornburg said.

Passive parks, Thornburg explained are oriented towards quiet enjoyment. They usually are just grass and trees. In contrast, an active park area is used primarily for activities like baseball, soccer and other competitive sports and provide the appropriate facilities.

"In Upland, we've discovered people are into active recreation and activities and park sites not the passive ones," Thornburg said. "No matter what you make a passive park, it remains a passive park."

Thornburg cited a study compiled by the National Recreation and Parks Association that showed in the terms of population, the city's needs are not being met. "Standards established by NRPA disclose both existing and planned park acreage falls short," Thornburg said. "According to the General

Recreation Director Larry Thornburg surveys the rose garden in Memorial Park.

Adults (above) can also find something to do in a city park — it's a great place to take a break or enjoy a relaxed lunch. No matter how young, there's something to interest any age. Shahandana Ullah, 21 months, (below) finds sitting inside an oversize tire at Memorial can be enthralling.

Plan excerpt we have, we are only meeting 29 percent of the needs of the city."

With an apparent parks deficit, why talk about selling off land? "It comes down to a question of money. If we can develop what we have into areas that are more widely used, then even though there may be an acreage shortage, we will actually be meeting the needs more thoroughly."

The four sites that were recommended to be sold, each five acres in size, are located on 14th Street between Mountain and San Antonio avenues; on the corner of 20th Street and San Antonio Avenue; on 18th Street, west of Pioneer Junior High School; and in Greenbelt Park, south of 14th Street.

Thornburg said if the sales of the four sites are approved by the Council, the $1.25 million realized from the sales would fatten parks coffers and allow development in the more highly used areas.

"We could improve some of the remaining areas with nicer picnic tables, trees and other amenities without having to scratch for the money," Thornburg said.

Other possible uses for the money would include development of softball fields at the school district site (between Benson and Mountain avenues, five acres west of the school site) and the installation of a picnic area adjacent to the soccer fields at Cabrillo Park.

"More acreage doesn't necessarily mean better quality," Thornburg said. "We feel people are more interested in a good park even if they have to go a little further to get to it than in one that's close and isn't worth bothering with."

Parks are an expensive proposition, Thornburg said. "It costs $413,800 annually just to maintain the 13 developed locations. Development costs for the 86.2 acres of acquired area amounts to almost $7 million or $86,000 per acre. Maintenance for the acreage to be developed is costing $397,000 per year. Just because an area isn't developed doesn't mean it is cost-free. These areas have to be cared for also."

The parks system in the city is funded through two sources, Park Acquisition and Development funds and grant programs and donated labor and materials from various community groups.

"If we can use what we have wisely and prudently then we will be able to develop a system that is second to none in the West Valley," Thornburg said. □

Neighbors

Latin community gathers at Upland church

By David Miller

The people who gather each week inside the modest beige and brown church at the corner of 8th and Sultana streets in Upland share more than a conviction to follow the word of God. They are all Latin Americans.

Welcome to the First Church of the Nazarene, Latin America. Most of these people speak little or no English. When asked, they will tell you that every Wednesday and Sunday, they travel from such places as Ontario, Upland, Rancho Cucamonga, Pomona, Etiwanda and Montebello. To get there, they had to leave places with names like Chile, Nicaragua and Mexico.

The present church site was purchased in 1966 to meet the needs of a growing Latin community in the West Valley. Two small congregations at churches in Cucamonga and Ontario totaled perhaps several dozen people in the late 1930s, but the turnout at the Upland site now averages roughly 80 to 85 each Sunday.

The original building in Cucamonga was sold to purchase the one at the present location. Many members of the congregation — which had grown to number about 115 by the mid-1960s — apparently left because they did not want to share in the responsibility of paying off the remainder of the new building's costs. Those that stayed behind — about half of the group — struggled, but the site was finally paid off in 1969.

Church members come from a range of socio-economic backgrounds and their fortunes since coming to the United States have varied, but they share a devotion to the teachings of Jesus Christ. The faces have changed often over the years, with some members moving on to other cities only to be replaced by new arrivals.

While an outsider may view the church as simply a place where Latin Americans (and Mexican-Americans) can come together and pray, members of the church view themselves as no different from any other congregation of devoted churchgoers. It is just that in this case they are all Latin Americans.

One member of the church — Manuelita Guerrero, who is from Mexico — has been attending one of the various Churches of the Nazarene for Latin Americans since the first opened in 1939, or for 44 years.

The story told by the Rev. Rigoberto Acosta, the church pastor, provides just one example of how members of the congregation arrived here. He was performing pastoral work in Nicaragua around the time of that country's revolution, and continued to do so following the overthrow of the dictatorial

David Miller

The Rev. Rigoberto Acosta and his wife, Lorena, came to the United States from Nicaragua after the 1979 revolution there. Acosta is pastor of the government of Anastasio Somoza.

Acosta probably would have been content with continuing his work in the Nicaraguan Nazarene church if not for one small problem: Prior to the revolution, he had worked for the Somoza government to supplement his income and provide for his family. The fact that he had any connections at all with Somoza was not looked upon with favor by the Sandinista leadership that had come into power.

So, with the aid of a friend, Acosta fled the

Billy Rubottom and other tales about Bear Gulch

By Jim Marxen

Somewhere buried in the dusty pages of history is the story of a man named Uncle Billy Rubottom.

Some called Billy a rascal, others apparently called him a gentleman; but then, time has a tendency to blur facts.

What is pretty well-accepted, however, is that Billy became the first businessman to set up shop in a little dimple of land below what people now call Red Hill.

Billy Rubottom probably wouldn't recognize Bear Gulch if he came back today. Chances are he'd wonder what ever happened to his Mountain View House inn or — for that matter — his view of the mountains.

Perhaps the most renowned fixture in Bear

Gulch is the Sycamore Inn.

Lying beneath a canopy of sycamore trees, the inn has been serving customers for almost 140 years.

Vern Hinrichsen has only been around the Sycamore for the past 43 years, but that's been long enough for him to have seen plenty of change around Bear Gulch.

"There wasn't anything here except this building," he said from a comfortable seat within his restaurant. "There used to be 40 or 50 more sycamores here than there are now."

The fourth (and present) version of the Sycamore was built by Cucamonga's famed architect John Klusman in 1920.

Hinrichsen has kept in contact with Klusman's descendants and is a bit of a historian himself.

Pulling sheafs of information from his files, he can recall any one of a number of events that happened in Bear Gulch — everything from its discovery by Spanish explorers to the widening of Foothill Boulevard.

Firefighters' duties, responsibilities varied

By Chief Donald E. Justis
Upland Fire Department

Of course we have to start off by saying that the firemen fight fires. We fight fires in commercial buildings, residences, automobiles, trucks, grass, brush, and nearly anything else that can be set on fire. We fight fires within the city, outside of the City of Upland on automatic aid and mutual aid agreements with other fire departments and out of the county on large requests for aid due to disasters that have befallen other counties. The firefighting part of a firefighter's life is small, but it's what he must train for at the highest to be able to perform well when called upon.

First aid calls and resuscitator calls comprise approximately 80 percent of our emergency activity. We respond to heart attacks, cuts, traumatic injuries, traffic accidents, childbirth, and nearly any other type of injury you can imagine. We usually get to the scene of an accident or medical emergency first.

The Fire Department in Upland holds a Blood Pressure Clinic at the main fire station at 475 N. 2nd Ave. on the first Sunday of every month. The purpose of the Blood Pressure Clinic is to take anyone's blood pressure that would like to know how their blood pressure is and have an educated opinion on whether it is too high or too low. We will make a referral if we feel that it is necessary for medical follow-up. If for some reason you need a blood pressure check other than the routine first Saturday of every month, you can walk into any fire station (Station I at Arrow and Second Ave., Station II on San Antonio north of 20th St., and Station III on Benson north of 13th St.), we do not always guarantee that the engine will be in quarters to do your blood pressure check at your convenience, but if you feel that you have a true medical emergency, we encourage you to call Fire Dispatch at the emergency number and a fire engine will respond with red lights and sirens as if you have a true medical emergency. The emergency number is 983-5911.

Firefighters give station tours for groups and we require adult supervision for children, because if all the equipment has to leave, we cannot have children unsupervised in the station. Any of the three fire stations will provide tours upon request and they will handle school groups, scout groups, or neighborhood and family groups.

Firefighters do ring removals (which sounds sort of foolish), why doesn't the person remove his own ring? Some rings have

Grove provided hunting ground

By John H. Nicholson

In about 1921, Mom and Pop bought a five acre orange grove on east 14th Street. It was immediately east of what is now the Sierra Vista School grounds.

The grove had an ancient "board and batt" house which Pop soon wrecked. Its age was apparent, as it was held together with the old square nails used many years earlier.

By this time, Pop had turned to carpentry, and he was good at it. He built us a comfortable new home on the site of the old one. It was quite modern, in keeping with the times.

We soon left west Ninth Street, and moved into the new house. Before long, a two-car garage, chicken and goat sheds and pens were added. When two milk goats were acquired, sister, Mildred, and I were assigned a daily chore of bringing in green feed for them. Nutritious weeds were easy to find, and we grew a strip of alfalfa along our 660 foot western boundary. Feed gathering was not difficult, and we thrived on the milk.

It was here that I was first introduced to local hunting, long since outlawed. Another five acre grove laid just east of us, its eastern boundary in line with Fifth Avenue in Upland, then just a brush fringed wagon trail. From there, about three miles east to Cucamonga, and north to the mountains.

John H. Nicholson, an Upland resident, chronicles his family's history in the West Valley.

was all just brush-covered land.

The Cucamonga Canyon wash wiggled down through it, to pass just east of Red Hill. Everyone spoke of the area as "the wash." The San Antonio Canyon wash, on the west side of Upland, started at Benson Avenue and extended to Claremont. Little changed, these washes are crossed today if traveling west of Benson on 16th Street, or east of Upland on 19th Street. They both did, and still do, abound with wildlife.

The washes were home to jackrabbits, cottontail rabbits, coyotes, skunks, possums, bobcats, ground squirrels, quail, doves and various snakes including rattlers. Many of these critters liked living in the groves, too, and they may still be seen there.

While hunting in the wash was always good, it was easier to do it in the groves. Pop taught me how. Looking for a rabbit for the table, or the dog, I took the 12-gauge shotgun and walked slowly across a grove.

Passing a tree, in one row, I would cautiously peek around the edge of the tree, and look up the space between tree rows. Moving along, it wouldn't be long before a rabbit would be spotted, sitting in the space between rows.

A quick check would indicate its distance, let's say 10 trees away. I would step back into the open space just passed, and quietly walk six or seven trees toward the rabbit, but out of its sight. Then, a cautious peek into the rabbit row. If it was still there, I eased the gun around the edge of the tree that screened me, took aim and fired. Thus, another one for the pot.

One day, I came upon a group of five skunks in a sort of football squad huddle, evidently discussing something. We had no love for skunks, because of the cheap, but powerful, perfume they used.

Evidently not liking me either, they walked off, single file, in the bottom of a straight irrigation furrow. I lined up on them, fired, and dropped all five. As the air turned foul, I decided to move to another grove.

Ground squirrels, a type of rodent, were everywhere, even around our house. They were a real pest, digging holes by the dozen, and they

Best dollar 'Pop' ever spent

Last week's article left the Nicholson family in a grove of trees "somewhere near Leucadia" on the way to Mexico. Carl and Blanche Nicholson, John H. Nicholson's "Mom and Pop," had heard about Tijuana — which they called Tia Juana — and decided on a camping trip to see the city. In those days, recalls the younger Nicholson, a camping trip involved "rolling up the mattresses and bedding, tying with a rope, adding half the kitchen, and loading it all aboard. This is the rest of the story:

Mom and Pop had talked about taking a ferry boat from San Diego to Coronado, and then drive down the Strand. I worried, as I knew about boats. I had seen them on the lake at Fairmount Park in Riverside and I knew that our car would sink one.

But, we didn't take the ferry route. It was a problem to take all of the camping gear into Mexico. So, with everyone else, we unloaded ours into piles beside the highway, about a mile before the border. Crossing over, there was about a half mile of brush land before the outskirts of Tia Juana.

About halfway into Tia Juana, we encountered a true Mexican-bandito type. Big hat, bullet bandoliers crossed over his chest, two pistols, and a rifle in one hand. He held up the other hand and stopped us. He said, "Senor, I am selling tickets to get into Tia Juana. One dollar please." Pop paid.

After about an hour in Tia Juana, we headed back to the border. We met the same fellow. This time, he said, "Senor, I am selling tickets to get out of Tia Juana. One dollar please." Pop paid, and later remarked, "Best darned dollar I ever spent."

been on fingers for 15 or 20 years and they get to be a sentimental thing, when the person goes to remove it they discover that it cannot be removed. Step "A" of ring removal is saving the person's finger. Step "B" which becomes more difficult is saving the person's ring. We manage to do both very well with a clever piece of equipment called a ring cutter. Firefighters also remove padlocks (the type on a garage or shed). The problem with this lock removal, of course, is that you have to convince the firefighters that you really do own the property that we're cutting the lock from. Clever crooks will find that we're rather hard to convince, so they can save themselves the trouble of calling the fire department.

Upland firefighters do CPR classes, first aid classes, first aid talks, demonstrations, etc...for the community. We have a number of children and young adults that are interested in becoming babysitters and we have a co-program with the Upland Police Department to train young people to a level of being able to deal with common types of emergency that come up at a basic level.

The Upland Fire Department gives fire safety lectures for industrial or commercial organizations. We will go into the community or your people can come in and use the facilities in the main station for specialized training. We do specialized equipment showing, such as the Lukas Tool, (two hydraulic rescue tools) which will make a convertible out of a hardtop car in around three minutes. It is a very necessary tool for extrication of victims from smashed automobiles.

We have specialized chemical suits for hazardous material spills. If you are a program chairman for a service club, we will be happy to come out and assist you in providing a program. Generally service clubs are quite satisfied with the caliber of program we have conducted for them as we will tailor it towards your specific needs.

Firefighters do water salvages. We should distinguish the word "water" from sewage at this point. If water comes from the back of the toilet tank and is clear flowing water or the pipe breaks that feeds the toilet, we will come out and give you a hand cleaning it up. We do not pick up sewage for health reasons because we go on too many first aid calls to contaminate our people and take them out of service for cleaning up. If a hot water heater

Exchange host can learn from student guests

By Jim Marxen

Sometimes the best way to experience another culture is to just stay home.

At least that's how Lucy Ringle felt last summer after she opened her home to a Japanese exchange student coming to America for the first time.

Ringle was so enthralled with her guest, she signed up again this year for the Interstudy exchange program.

"You learn as much about them as they do about you," she said of her guest.

This year another group of Japanese students will find homes in Rancho Cucamonga and, in the process, discover what makes Americans tick.

Barbara Clingwood, who will coordinate this year's local program (she will also teach English to the Japanese students), became involved with the program after meeting students last summer.

"I thoroughly enjoyed them," she admitted.

Her enthusiasm led her to Interstudy's regional headquarters in Los Angeles, where she was

Time to heed annual warnings about Old Sol

It's getting to be fun-in-the-sun time.

And it's also time for the annual warning that too much exposure to sun rays can cause wrinkles, cancer and various types of ugly wartlike growths (keratosis) on the skin. However, that warning from people like the Health Insurance Institute does little to keep tanners from lying in the sun to obtain that annual "healthy" glow associated with the world-famous Southern California tan.

Here are some tanning tips passed on by dermatologists each year:

- Schedule outdoor activities for early morning or late afternoon since the sun's rays are usually most severe between 10 a.m. and 3 p.m.
- Use sun-screening lotions generously. Containers are marked with numbers that indicate how long you can remain in the sun safely. One marked 8, for example, means you can stay in the sun 8 times longer than you normally could without getting a harmful sunburn.
- Wear a hat or scarf — or one of those silly hat umbrellas — if you plan a long day at the beach.
- Beware of sun reflectors used for tanning since they concentrate harmful doses of ultra-violet rays.
- Keep in mind, you may be swimming mostly underwater, but you can sunburn underwater, too.
- Be careful and don't expose sensitive babies to the sun unnecessarily. An infant is far more susceptible to sunburn than an adult, so his or her sunbaths should be short. Babies rely upon

Fireworks show set for Chaffey College stadium

Those loud booms and shiny lights above the hills of Alta Loma July 4 will not be the result of an enemy attack on the city.

Instead, a fireworks spectacular will be staged at the Chaffey College stadium.

The Community Services fund-raising activity, with proceeds going to maintain employee salaries and benefits for 1983-84, will run from 1 to 10 p.m.

Activities will include sack, three-legged and wheelbarrow races, egg tosses, a watermelon eating contest, tugs-of-war, softball, volleyball and swimming.

Grills will be available for barbecuing.

Pyro Spectaculars of Rialto will provide the fireworks for the show in the stadium.

Admission is $2 per person or $10 per family. Tickets can be purchased in advance.

For more information, call the Community Services Office at 987-1737.

'Triple threat' baseball contest at Colony Park

A "Go With the Dodgers Triple Threat Contest" is planned for Saturday at Colony Park in Ontario.

The three areas of competition will be hitting for distance and accuracy, throwing for distance and accuracy and base running against time.

Boys and girls born from 1973-74, 1971-72 and 1969-70, will compete in their respective age categories. The boy's division will compete with regulation baseballs and baseball bats while the girl's division will use regulation 12-inch softballs and softball bats.

First, second and third place winners in the Ontario contest will be eligible to participate in the Regional contest. Winners in the Regional contest will continue into the finals at Dodger Stadium.

Registration forms for the contest, hosted by the Ontario Recreation

Let the Fun Shine In!

Be 'safe and sane' when celebrating with fireworks

Enjoying "Safe and Sane" fireworks during Fourth of July celebrations is an American tradition. However something we must all recognize is that fireworks present a serious safety hazard. Fireworks are associated with patriotism and fun, but we should not forget their misuse may result in death, blinding, amputation and severe burns.

In an effort to avoid fireworks related injuries and fires, Rancho Cucamonga's Sheriff's Station and Foothill Fire District will be strictly enforcing fireworks laws. If you wish to enjoy fireworks be sure they are "Safe and Sane" fireworks; and you are not in a high fire hazard area where discharge of all fireworks is prohibited.

Fireworks are not permitted in the city of Upland.

Listed below are a few helpful hints and tips on the safe and proper ways to enjoy legal fireworks.

- Follow the printed instructions carefully and use common sense.
- Always have an adult present when fireworks are used.
- Use fireworks outdoors only in a clear area away from houses and buildings.

- Never point or throw fireworks at another person or pets.
- Don't carry fireworks in your pocket.
- Don't shoot fireworks in metal or glass containers.
- Be courteous and aware of your neighbor's rights.

- Light only one item at a time, then move away quickly once the fuse is ignited.
- Have a garden hose and water nearby.
- Don't experiment with homemade fireworks.

- Supervise children at fireworks time.
- Dispose of debris and spend materials properly.

Some things you may not have even wondered about ... Adding a drop or two of vinegar or lemon juice to the water when you poach or boil fish will help cut the fishy smell. Fresh fish directly from the water has practically no odor, reports the University of California Cooperative Extension. And shellfish remains, like poultry remains, should be discarded in the outside trash container to avoid a stench. ... Speaking of odors, storage of damp jogging shoes in a wine-type rack gives the footwear ample space to air out — ideal for vintage shoes.

A double-thick pouch to protect super-fast photographic film — has been introduced to the retail market by SIMA Products Corp. The new packs are called Super FilmShield pouches and are being sold for 1,000-speed films being marketed by Kodak.

Minnesota Mining & Manufacturing (3M) plans to market 1,000-speed film this summer, SIMA reports. Testing by Kodak has shown unprocessed film is damaged by airport X-ray equipment. However, SIMA reports that the new super-fast films, according to Kodak tests, are three-and-a-half times more sensitive to X-rays than film rated at a speed of 400. Kodak has a warning against X-ray exposure on each package of the new film. Scientists who use film in research have long advocated warnings at airport security points, where luggage is X-rayed, warning of film damage. Signs now state X-rays will not damage film. □

Vintage-60s cars to be exhibited

A celebration of vintage-60s automobiles takes place Sunday at Upland Memorial Park.

The celebration, a car show hosted by the Mustang Club of Southern California, will feature more than 300 Mustangs and various other late 60s models such as Shelbys, Panteras and Tigers.

The car show, which takes place from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m., is billed as the largest Mustang show in the West.

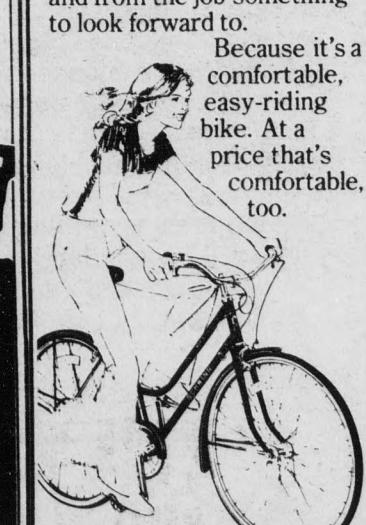

The show is free to the public. A registration fee for participants is charged. For further information call Gene Harrison at (213) 966-6114 or Sandy McLaughlin at 985-8849.

More than 74 awards will be handed out.

Couple celebrates 67 years of togetherness and bliss

By Joy Sommer

After 67 years of marriage, is there still something to say to each other?

Uplanders Jessie and Martha Cummhany recently marked 67 years of togetherness at a small party hosted by friends and neighbors.

"You bet we do," Jessie said. "We're friends, not just married."

Angelic Duran, also of Upland, one of the ladies who played hostess for the couple, said watching the two of them together is a beautiful thing to see.

"I think they must still care as much about each other as they did when they were married all those years ago in Texas," she said.

Jessie is now blind and Martha suffers from arthritis but they are still independent, living frugally on just a Social Security income.

"They get along well," Duran said. "Martha does everything for Jessie — I don't understand how she manages some things, she's such a little thing."

Martha and Jessie had 10 children but only four, three daughters and a son, are still living. Although the children are scattered, the couple still feels close to them even though they rarely see them.

Jessie, 88, and Martha, 85, came to California in 1946 when Jessie retired from farming. They have made their home in Upland for the last 22 years, Duran said.

What's the secret of staying married and getting along so well for all those years?

"Well," Jessie said with a grin, "We never argue but if we do, I always let Martha think she's right — even when she's not." □

Handy Menders relies on retirees

By Matt Coker

Charlie West has work coming out of his ears, but finding the right people for the jobs has been downright unnerving.

Perhaps the reason a steady stream of applicants are not banging down his door is due to the fact many do not meet his number one requirement. Prospective employees must be retired.

The ex-Rancho Cucamonga councilman's four-month-old Handy Menders Inc. utilizes the know-how of retired craftsmen, carpenters and general fixer uppers in helping people who cannot help themselves.

West said the concept behind the business was for retirees to do the work for senior citizens. While still the main emphasis behind Handy Menders, West also accepts, at a higher rate, commercial and other residential work to keep the business alive.

"It's going pretty good," West said from his home-turned-office. "We fulfill two needs. First, senior citizens need work done they can afford. Second, there is a good market for retirees."

The business is just what the handyman needed for widows who have a variety of tasks to complete that only her husband could perform.

Besides basic household tasks, Handy Menders perform minor plumbing repairs, refinishing and just about anything else within reason.

West employs a butcher.

West admits his once highly skilled workers are "slower" than they once were, but he does not do any high pressure deadline jobs anyway.

Plus, the cost, which is often suited to a person's particular financial situation, cannot be

West said there is nothing underhanded about his business. It is completely legal as he provides men's compensation and other necessary services.

West operates under Rancho Cucamonga

Upland Crime Stoppers a 'rewarding' program

The Upland Crime Stoppers Program has officially been inaugurated, Carlos Mata, chairman of the Upland Crime Stoppers Board of Directors, announced recently.

The Crime Stoppers Program was initiated after a recent murder in Upland in which a young women was killed in the course of a robbery.

The Crime Stoppers establish rewards for information leading to the arrest and conviction of suspected law breakers, thereby assisting the Police Department in solving crimes.

"The amount of a reward is set by the board of directors after the police coordinator presents the facts and evidence of the case in which informant information has resulted in the solving of the crime," Mata said.

"According to information available from many cities, including Ontario where this program is in force, about 45 percent of the responders to a Crime Stoppers plea are 'good citizens' and they usually provide information that is general in nature," Mata said. "They are not particularly interested in obtaining a reward but they are very fearful of retaliation and it is the program's guarantee of anonymity that gives them the courage to call.

Another 20 percent of the telephone calls come from criminals, and their motives are a desire for reward money, revenge and removal of competition.

"Their information is usually quite specific and it is gladly accepted because the program's policy is to 'evaluate the information and not the pedigree of the caller.' The remaining 35 percent of the calls are from 'fringe players'—people who are not criminals themselves but who have contact with the criminal element.

"Publicity through the cooperation of the news media, through anonymity of the individual providing the tip and a reward are the keys to success of the Crime Stoppers Program," Mata continued. "We know that the citizens of Upland are eager to cooperate and support this worthwhile program in order to maintain our outstanding community."

For further information on the newly-formulated program in Upland contact the Upland Crime Stoppers at 946-STOP.

country for the United States. He made his way to San Antonio, Texas, where he served as a pastor in a Nazarene church there for almost four years before coming to Upland about one month ago. Ruben Marines, Acosta's predecessor at the church and a Mexican emigre, had left to work at another church in La Puente.

Acosta now lives close by with his wife, Lorena, and their two children; Ronnier, 9, and Margie, 8. He works out of his office, located at the rear of the church, every Tuesday through Saturday morning, and spends most afternoons visiting church members' homes, providing counseling and spiritual guidance.

While Acosta says that people of all denominations are welcome to attend the church, only the doctrine of the Nazarene is taught during services, which are offered mostly in Spanish. Occasionally, passages are read in English, but there is always someone present to translate the message into Spanish. Sunday school lessons for youngsters are also offered in English.

But Acosta, who has now been a pastor for 14 years, says the message of the Nazarene is universal — it does not only apply to those who speak Spanish or English (Acosta speaks only limited English).

"Our church is working in 70 countries around the world," he says. "If you are a pastor in Nicaragua or in Africa or in Asia, you can move under the organization. You can be a pastor in whatever country you want. You only need to learn the language."

Most of the congregation has been in the United States as long or longer than Acosta, and many tell the common story that they came to this country to find a better life. Most have jobs, and when a member of the church experiences financial trouble or other difficulties, the others will try to help out in whatever way they can.

Acosta says he tries to make himself available for counseling whenever possible. He believes that regardless of whether a churchgoer is experiencing marital complications or other types of problems, the root of the trouble is usually the same.

"For me, the best help that we can give to the people is spiritual help," he says. "The center of the problems of human beings is spiritual. When a human does not have Christ in his heart, he practices all kinds of bad habits."

Acosta says that those "bad habits" usually are the main cause of the problems faced by members of the congregation. The habits — such as gambling and the consumption of alcohol — serve to deprive a person of his or her livelihood and deny one's family the basic necessities for survival: food, clothing and shelter.

"The problem that I find here in the United States is not that there is poverty," he says. "It is just that the people — the money they earn they spend on their habits. Jesus said the only way to change the human being is not to change the environment, but to change the heart."

"But the social system cannot make that change. Only Christ can."

Acosta says that he — and indeed all members of the church — are ready to help any Latin American person living in the area who is in need of assistance. "Whatever country they come from, we are open," he says. "We want to serve their spiritual or moral (needs), or any other thing that is within our capabilities. We invite all persons to come and visit this church, because we want to offer them the most valuable, precious word in the world: share — share in Jesus Christ."

When asked whether he plans to return to his native Nicaragua, Acosta smiles and says no thanks, he is happy to be here in the United States, "preaching the word of God."

"Right now in Nicaragua, we have 45 pastors in the Nazarene Church," he says. "And we have about 20 or 30 young people preparing to be pastors in Nicaragua. I think we have a lot of pastors for the Nicaraguan people."

Here in the United States, the need for more pastors is greater, he says.

Acosta says that the ruling Sandinista government in Nicaragua has pretty much left the country's followers of the Nazarene alone, with one exception: Since there is a shortage of both labor and capital in the country, churchgoers are often required to assist in certain aspects of the labor force.

"The only thing that (the Nicaraguan government does) is when it is time to pick up the crops, they are not allowed to go to church," Acosta says. "They must go out and pick the crops instead." □

When choosing a restaurant, like I, you probably go with great expectations that the service and the food will be perfect and to your satisfaction. Might I suggest that if you do have a complaint please bring it to someone's attention, I'm sure they'll be happy to correct whatever might have been the problem. On the other hand when everything is great and your food is cooked to absolute perfection do tell them about it. You might not realize it but when a person leaves the restaurant and says, "I enjoyed my meal", that's akin to going to the theatre and telling the performer, "I enjoyed your performance."

If you're ready for a dining adventure you'll really enjoy Miyako Gardens for either lunch or dinner. The restaurant is beautifully decorated, the service is cordial and attentive, it's sure to please the most discriminating of Japanese food lovers. Miyako Gardens boasts of the only hibachi bar in the valley. If you choose to go there for lunch the special is chicken teriyaki for only $4.25, included is a breast of chicken with teriyaki sauce, soup, rice and green tea. The dinner special is beef teriyaki and tempura for $9.50. The happy hour happens every Monday through Friday from 4 to 7 p.m. with all well drinks only $1.00.

Miyako Gardens is at 840 S. Indian Hill Blvd. in Claremont.

Would you like to try authentic Mexican food? Las Cazuelitas at 186 No. Second Ave. in downtown Upland (across from Crocker Bank) invites you to try their super great chile rellenos. Other Mexican combinations might attract your attention and alert your taste buds so do give them a try but don't go there on Tuesdays, they're closed.

Rocky's Pizza at 9615 Foothill Blvd. in Cucamonga has a grand offer for pizza lovers of all ages. From Monday through Wednesday you can enjoy an extra large pizza with one topping, two salads and a pitcher of beer for $11.95. Maybe you'd rather the lasagna/spaghetti dinner for two for $9.98, you'll get a choice of meatball or sausage, a loaf of garlic bread, 2 salads and 2 medium sodas. Be sure to take the coupons with you, by the way, these offers are not good on take out orders.

Mac Donuts is presenting a firecracker special, $1.00 off any dozen doughnuts. You're also invited to try the new muffins they're baking just for you, a free muffin of your choice with any dozen doughnuts. If you happen to be in the area on July 4th weekend stop buy and enjoy a tasty doughnut, you'll get a free cup of coffee.

Mac Donuts is open 7 days a week and 24 hours a day, you'll find them at 9625 Foothill Blvd. in Rancho Cucamonga (in Rancho Terrace next to McDonald's).

Does your family love big breakfasts? Instead of cooking now that school is out why not pile them all in the family car and head for The Iron Skillet at 805 N. Euclid in Ontario. You'll really enjoy the relaxed atmosphere and what's more they promise to do the dishes.

The big three egg breakfast with hash browns and toast or buttermilk pancakes for only $2.25 is certainly hard to beat, besides the above mentioned items you'll get a different choice of meat each day of the week. Monday it's ham, Tuesday sausage, Wednesday bacon, Thursday corned beef hash and on Friday a hamburger patty. Breakfast is served from midnight until 11 a.m. Monday through Friday. Until next week....Bon Apetit!!

Music ensemble, singers, dancers perform in dinner atmosphere

Edwards Mansion Restaurant in Redlands is adding a variety of artist series dinner shows which will include ensemble instrumental music, cabaret-type singing and showcase dancing.

The Mansion will present two shows nightly, Sunday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday evenings at 7 and 8:30 p.m.

The groups will perform on the Orangerie Patio of the restaurant, which will offer a full menu of entree selections ranging from $10.95 to $13.95. The menu price includes the dinner show.

The Kellogg Trio, a group consisting of musicians playing the violin, piano and cello, will begin their performances on Thursday evenings. The Curtain Call Singers perform Sunday and Wednesday evenings and The Curtain Call Dancers perform on Tuesday evenings.

The Kellogg Trio is a unique experiment, claims Ronald Marasco, founder of the programs. It will be performing the music of Bach, Beethoven, Mozart, Brahms and others in a dinner show atmosphere.

The Trio was formed in September 1982 and made its debut with five two-hour concerts at the Los Angeles County Fair. They have subsequently performed extensively in Southern California in addition to their "Trio-in Residence" status at Cal Poly Pomona.

ENTERTAINMENT & DINING GUIDE

Beverly Hills estate's botanical garden now open for public tours

Southern California's newest public botanical garden played an important role in the Southland's social history.

The Automobile Club of Southern California recommends taking a one-hour guided tour of the Virginia Robinson Gardens as an enjoyable summer "Gas-Saver Get-Away" activity, either by itself or as part of a day-long trip to the area.

"The Robinson estate, one of the first homes built in Beverly Hills, became a center of social activities during Hollywood's heyday," said Joni Hunt, Auto Club travel publications editor.

"Virginia Robinson, daughter-in-law of the department store chain founder, hosted lavish parties and benefits attended by movie stars, philanthropists and foreign dignitaries. This notoriety, in addition to the magnificent gardens, assures the wide appeal of the tour."

Mrs. Robinson deeded her six-acre estate to the Los Angeles State and County Arboretum upon her death in 1977. At that time, she was almost 100 years old and the grounds had become somewhat neglected.

Edwards Mansion to feature music, dance on patio

The group consists of Donald Ambroson, PhD., violinist, and head of the music department at Cal Poly Pomona; Phillip Clarke, pianist; and Ana Maria Maldonado, cellist, both Associate Professors of Music at the university. The Curtain Call Singers will perform Broadway show tunes and various operatic pieces.

The Curtain Call Dancers consists of Kathy Hornbaker, Sharlene Innerbichler, Laura Holbrook, Julian Davis, James Earl Miller, Vernon David, Catherine Coppock and Blanche Lamar.

The "Music at the Mansion" programs are under the general directorship of Marasco, a former Orange County nightclub owner.

Reservations are suggested and can be obtained by calling the Mansion at 793-2031.

The arboretum recently opened the estate for tours, having repaired or restored some of the gardens' former elegance.

Completed in 1911, the Robinson home was designed for entertaining and is listed in the Register of National Historic Places. A huge lawn leads from the rear of the main house to a patio area, pool and guest house. From this point, tours wind through the terraced gardens via a series of brick walkways and secluded patios.

Because the gardens are more than 60 years old, several familiar plants have taken on unfamiliar forms. Oleander bushes have been trained into a shade-providing canopy of trees. Another large tree had arboretum experts stumped until a flower appeared, and they were able to identify it as a hibiscus.

Although the main house isn't open yet for the tour, large windows give a good view of the interior. Visitors are allowed inside the guest pavilion, which is being restored.

Volunteer docents conduct lively and informative tours Tuesday through Friday by appointment only, beginning at 10 a.m. and 1 p.m.

Admission is $3 for adults, $2.25 for ages 5 to 17. Group tours are limited to 30 people. For reservations and directions to the estates, call the arboretum at (213) 446-8251 approximately one month before you expect to visit the Virginia Robinson Gardens.

ENTERTAINMENT & DINING GUIDE

Museum offers program series for families

LOS ANGELES — This summer, the Los Angeles County Museum of Art will present its annual Midsummer Evenings program, a special series for families.

Each evening will include tours of the museum, art workshops for children and their parents, and an entertaining musical or theatrical performance on the museum lawn. Midsummer Evenings will be held at the museum Saturday and on July 23, Aug. 13 and Sept. 3, from 4 to 8 p.m.

The schedule for each evening will include:

- Special tours at 4 p.m. presented by members of the Education Department focusing on highlights of the museum's newly reinstalled permanent collection. Tours are geared toward families with children of all ages.
- Outdoor workshops for children and their parents. Workshop participants in June and August will make toys and three-dimensional, moveable objects in "On The Move: A Moveable Sculpture Workshop." Families in July and September will sculpt mythological heroes and heroines from recycled objects in the workshop "Recycled Myths: Mythical Creatures from Recycled Materials."
- Mime Richard Shope and celebrate the art of sculpture in "Mime Celebrates Art" by viewing and participating in a series of mime sketches focusing

Barbara Mandrell slated to headline show at fair

Barbara Mandrell, award-winning country music entertainer, will headline grandstand entertainment at the Los Angeles County Fair in Pomona with performances Sept. 15 and 16.

Mandrell is the recipient of some of country music's highest honors including Country Music Association's Entertainer of the Year for 1980 and 1981; Country Music Association's Female Vocalist of the Year for 1979 and 1981 and Music City News Awards' Musician of the Year for 1981 and 1982.

In addition to her success as a recording artist, Mandrell has also starred in her own television musical variety series on NBC. She has recently completed her first gospel album and will soon begin work on her first motion picture role.

Her first professional performance was at the age of 11 demonstrating a pedal steel guitar.

Redlands Bowl shows scheduled

Ballet Folklorico de Graciela Tapia will perform July 8 at 8:15 p.m. at the Redlands Bowl.

On July 12, Emanuel Sheynkman, master of the balalaika and the Russian mandolina, will perform. The program will be preceded by a community sing, directed by Curtiss Allen, beginning at 7:30 p.m.

Redlands Bowl programs are free.

on the sculpture in the B. G. Cantor Sculpture Garden.

- Outdoor performances will be held at 6:30 p.m. on the museum lawn, featuring a variety of local performers.

Families are invited to picnic during the musical or theatrical events.

Admission to "Midsummer Evenings" is free to museum members and is included in the admission fee for the general public.

No reservations are required except for family workshops. Registration for workshops will begin at 3:45 p.m., on the day of each program, at the Information Table on the upper plaza.

washdowns of gasoline spills or diesel spills, and responds to natural gas leaks to either stop them or slow them down until the gas company can get there to do a more permanent fix. We respond to fallen Edison wires and standby until they are either rendered safe by the Edison Company or the power can be turned off at some main location. We will isolate the wires and generally try to make a safer condition out of a problem situation. We will come out and check almost anything in your home or place of business that you're concerned with that you think may be a fire hazard or smells like it's putting off smoke.

We would rather come to your place several times for nothing, rather than have someone not call us and find that they really should have. We do not charge at this time for any of our services. We would like to reiterate at this point that there are two things that we really do not do: 1. We do not pick up sewage (there are companies that will pick up sewage); and 2. We do not get cats out of trees. We catch a little bit of heat on this from the animal groups, but it is extremely dangerous to raise an aluminum ladder into trees and bushes that may have high tension lines running through them. It's possible to be scratched up very badly and fall from the ladder while attempting to rescue the cat that is much better equipped to climb around in the trees than the firefighter is.

We would encourage everyone in the City of Upland to know where the closest fire station is to their home and to stop by and say "hello" and find out what they really do have for equipment on the engine and what they can do for you personally before you really need help. If you do not have a phone sticker, we would be happy to provide one or more for you. We have them at the main fire station. Please stop by and get as many as you need; you really need to find the phone number in a matter of seconds.

There are in excess of 2,000 occupancies that require inspections on an annual basis. These inspections are done through both fire prevention bureau personnel and the fire suppression engine companies. The fire suppression engine companies carry the greatest burden of bulk inspections for the city. The suppression companies and their inspections are looking at the basic businesses, light industrial and certain commercial residential areas. They check for all life safety provisions as applied by the various uniform codes in use within the city. The fire prevention bureau personnel conduct the more specialized inspections which require a greater depth of technical knowledge in the institutions, educational facilities and highly industrialized areas involving use of very hazardous materials. Through these type of combined works and inspections, the fire loss and number of fires has been on a decrease.

In conclusion, all Upland firefighters think of themselves as public servants, we are here to serve the citizens and the intent of this article is to educate the citizens as to what it is the fire department can do for them. □ placed in charge of recruiting and interviewing host families in the Rancho Cucamonga area.

She needs 20 hosts this year. So far, she has less than 10.

"The biggest requirement is that they (hosts) have a warm heart," she said. "We want the kids to have a good experience."

This year's group will consist of college students — most of whom already have a fair grasp of the English language.

All of them have been briefed in Japan on what to expect when they visit the United States.

After hosting a Japanese girl last year, Ringle learned that some customs apparently never die.

"Last year we learned not to bring her to a restaurant where you couldn't use chopsticks," she said.

Although this year's group will visit the usual tourist venues (stops include Disneyland and downtown Los Angeles), students will spend a portion of their time in a classroom setting.

"We'll have classes three mornings a week with excercises all geared to help them better their English," Clingwood said.

Students will get instruction on such American activities as asking for a date.

"They are a very disciplined people," Ringle said. "They are not a 'touching' people ... they don't shake hands."

"But when the students left last year, they left hugging and kissing — they experienced freedom."

This year's program, which begins July 16, will include a local tour and talks by city officials.

Students return to Japan Aug. 14.

Host families are not reimbursed by Interstudy for food and shelter, Clingwood said, but the company is willing to provide host families with an extra bed if it's necessary.

Interstudy also offers host families travel discounts.

The biggest reward, Ringle said, is the lasting friendships established.

"The student we had last year is our Japanese daughter," she said. "If we ever went to Japan, we'd go to see her." □

'Mom' had ways to deal with rodents were known to be flea-ridden. For those who did their thing in our yard, Mom had a cure.

She made a hole in the fly screen on our back porch, a bit bigger than the barrel of the shot gun. She sewed up a thick pad for the gun butt, where it fitted against her shoulder. Sighting squirrel activity, she would blast away. Often, by day's end, she would have four or five hanging by their tails from the clothesline.

A spur line of the Santa Fe railway left the main line and went north, a bit west of Grove Avenue. It swung west in line with 14th Street, and on reaching the groves, went northward to a citrus packing house on east 19th Street. That is now the warehouse of the Great Western Rose Co.

Several nights each week, we enjoyed the sound of the old steam locomotive, coming with some empty box cars. By the intensity of its "Chooing," we could tell if it was on the easy westward leg, or heading on up the hill. When it whistled, many coyotes would howl. Later, it coasted back down hill, with filled box cars, and no need to "Chooof." There was just a great clanking of its rather loose monkey-motion. I can still hear it, with nostalgia. □

Word's out on off-road excitement

In the sport's early days, it was the rule rather than the exception that the George family performed before cactuses, rocks and lonely animals in their off-road endeavors. It was a sport and labor of love with little, if any, recognition.

"Off-road is the best kept secret in racing," Gil George said for an equal amount of time. But there are changes ahead for the Georges and other off-road racers.

No longer are they confined to the deserts of Southern and Baja California. Off-road racing has come inside, so to speak, and closed-course racing is giving competitors an opportunity to actually race together.

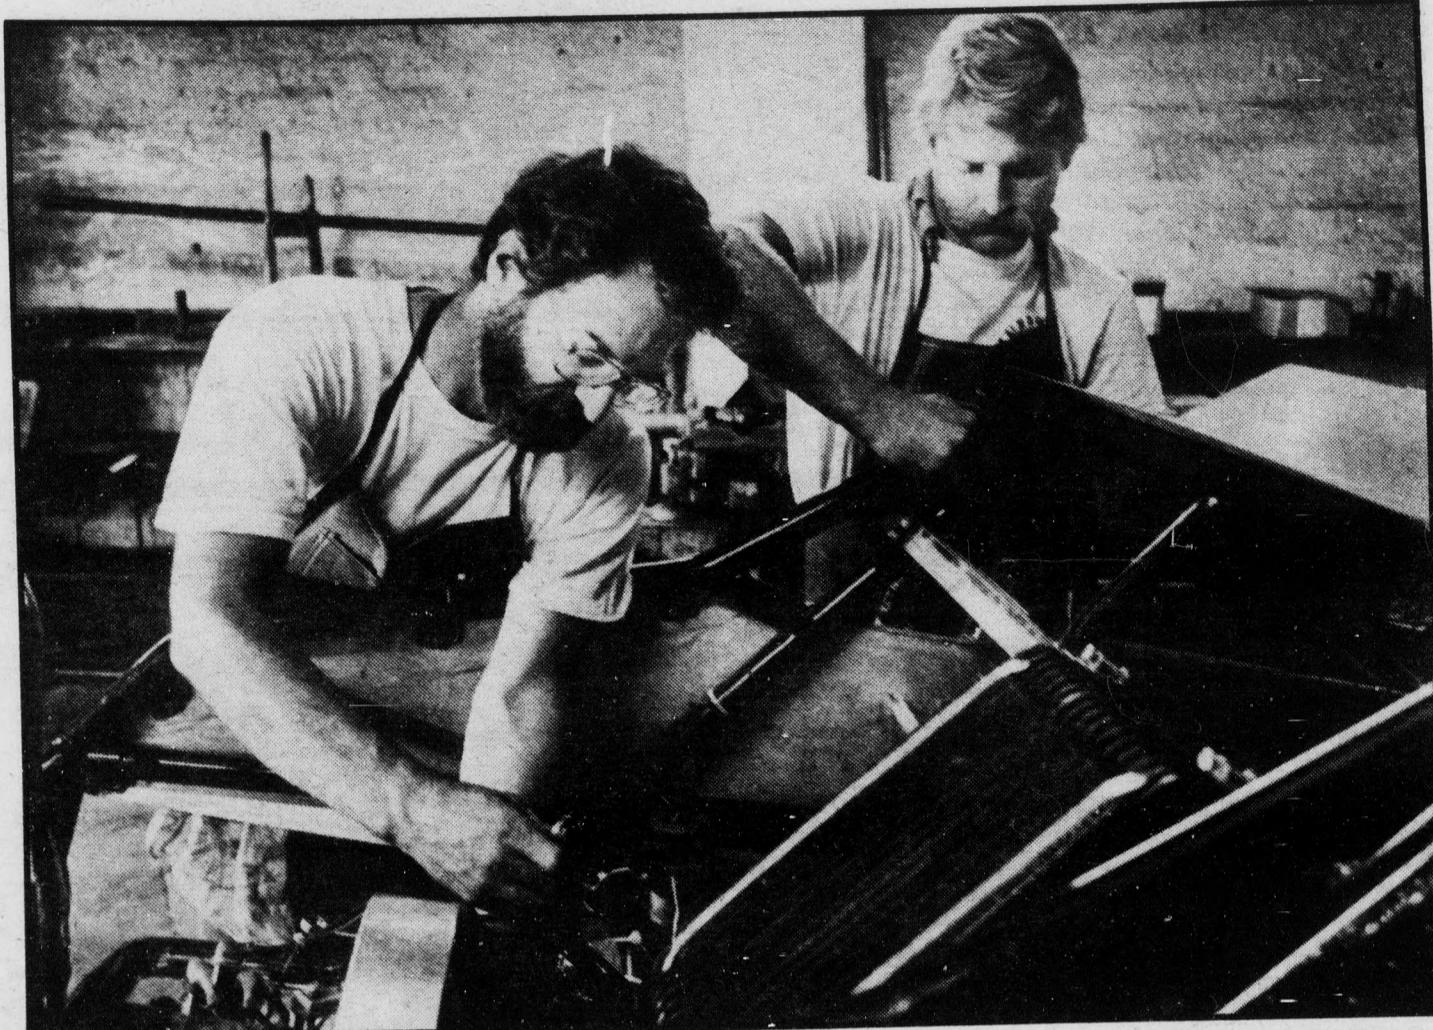

Then there's the matter of exposure. Television has discovered the sport. Viewers from throughout the country are dialing in to various events, such as Mickey Thompson's Off-Road Championship Gran Prix series at the Los Angeles County Fairgrounds.

No longer are the racing Georges familiar to only family and fans. Car builder Gil and race driver Greg are both reaping the benefits of the electronic media.

"We've had calls from Texas and Alaska commenting about the races over ESPN," said Gil, who manufactures the Funco racer in his Rancho Cucamonga shop.

It's also good for business.

"I think we've sold two or three racers since the series has been on television,"

Tom Tondee

Greg said of the $35,000 racer which dominates off-road racing. "Plus, we have another two or three on hold."

In less than six months, the 23-year-old Upland resident has received almost as much notice as in the 11 years he's been racing. He was 12 year olds when he grabbed the controls of a Funco, with father Gil in his pits.

Gil's still around the pits, but Greg's racing is no longer a family affair. He has a full sponsor in Pipeline Trucking and the experience he's picked up is paying off.

On a short track such as the one Thompson has built inside the horse track in Pomona, the experience comes in to play once the faster cars begin to lap slower traffic.

"You have to use that experience to get by those guys without getting into trouble."

Fulfilling life's major dream

By Charles Bentley

There was a time when Dana DeMuth dreamed of making it to the big leagues, stepping to the plate as a packed stadium watched his every move.

That time has come for the 27-year-old Upland resident, but not quite as he imagined it. Instead of making it a player, DeMuth is currently calling balls and strikes as part of his tenure as a rookie National League umpire.

The 1974 Chaffey High School graduate made his first trip to Dodger Stadium as an umpire last week as part of the crew that worked the Atlanta Braves/Los Angeles Dodgers series.

"Hey, I'm living my dream right now," commented a smiling DeMuth during his stay at Chavez Ravine. "Heck, I guess you'd have to say this whole season has been a dream come true for me."

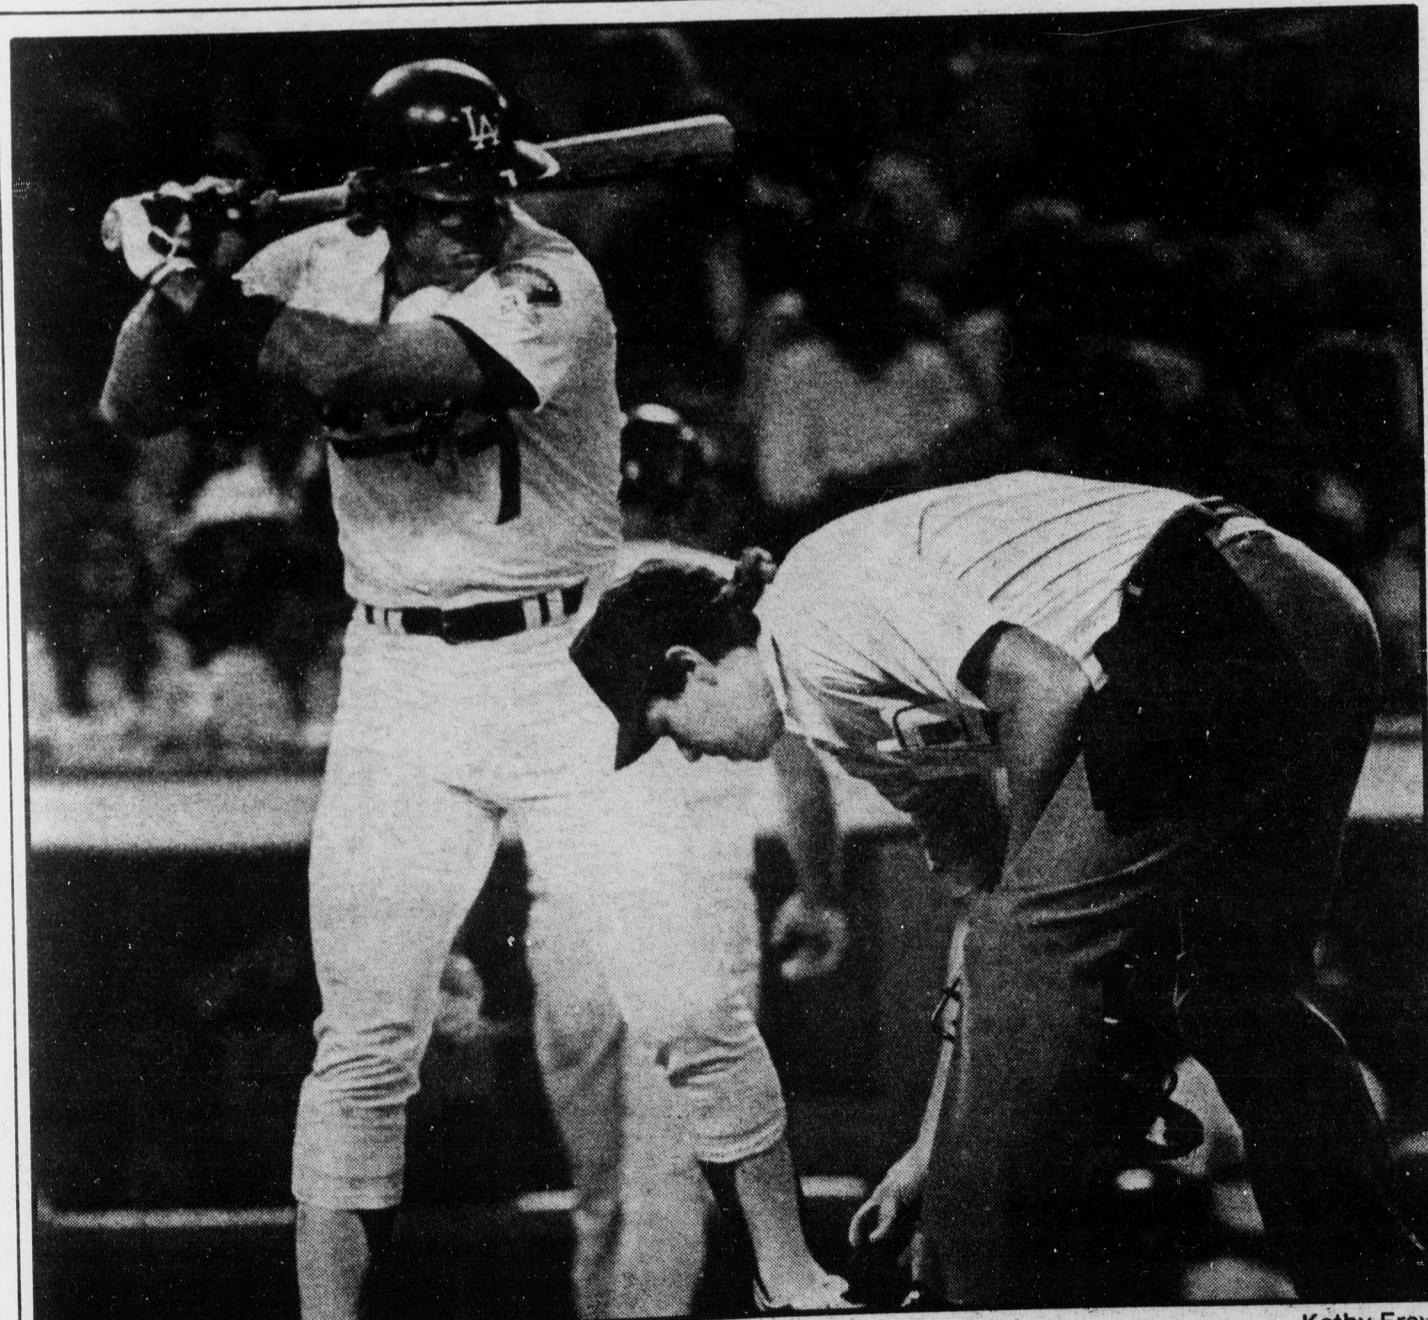

His dreams of being a player faded away the first season he played under coach Howard Lowder at Chaffey College.

"I grew up playing baseball and loving baseball. Being a professional ball player is all I thought about. But then I got to college and got a little taste of reality," remembered DeMuth. "I played with and against some people that were obviously more talented than I was."

"When I didn't get any nibbles from the pros or major colleges, I knew I'd have to hang 'em up," he admitted.

It was friend that reminded DeMuth that another avenue to the major leagues was still open to him.

From the time he was 13, DeMuth had spent (Continued on page 34)

Upland Soccer Park regional tourney site

Upland Soccer Park has been designated as one of the regional sites for the Coca-Cola Olympic Youth Soccer Tournament slated for August.

More than 400 teams, including the Upland Hornets (AYSO), will participate in the second annual event sponsored by the Coca-Cola Company and sanctioned by the United States Youth Soccer Association in conjunction with the Los Angeles Olympic Organizing Committee.

Playing in the Boys Division 2 category (under 16), the Hornets are sanctioned by AYSO Region 32 and coached by Ray and Sheila Adams.

The tournament, largest of its kind ever organized in Southern California with over 8,000 youngsters set to participate, is slated for the four weekends in August.

Preliminary rounds are set for Aug. 6-7, with regional finals Aug. 13-14, championship quarterfinals Aug. 20-21, semifinals Aug. 27 and championship finals Aug. 28.

All games will be conducted under Federation International de Football Association (FIFA) with winners receiving Olympic-style medals.

There is no registration fee for the tournament. However, area firms and individuals interested in sponsoring the Hornets to help defray expenses should contact Ray Adams at 838 West 13th Street, Upland, 91786 or phone (714) 981-3008.

Hilltoppers title games set Saturday

Championship games are scheduled Saturday at two sites for the Upland Hilltoppers, completing the season's action.

Regular season games ended last week and only the title games remain to be played. The major league championship will be determined at Greenbelt Park, while the mini-minor and minors will settle the title games at Magnolia Park.

Pizza Chalet, the Division I winner with a sterling 18-2 record, will battle ODO for the major league title. ODO won Division II with a fine 19-2 record. The game is set for 10 a.m. at Greenbelt, located at 15th Street and Benson.

In the minors title contest, undefeated Foothill Computers will tangle against Foothill Beverage. Foothill Computers ended the year at 15-0, while Foothill Beverage was 12-2.

The minors title game is set for 1 p.m. at Magnolia on the center field. Playing at the same time but on the south field will be the mini-minor finalists.

Golden Pacific Bank went through the regular season with a 17-0 mark to win Division I. Premium Distributing was the Division II winner with a 9-7-1 record.

Action Awards won the T-Ball title. The team of manager Sue Gilbert posted a 13-2 record, finishing a game better than the General Distributing crew.

Following the minor and mini-minor title game, awards will be passed out and the All-Star teams will also be announced.

In addition, a Dime-a-Dip barbecue will also follow at Magnolia Park.

said Greg, taking a break from building another Funco racer.

There's also the challenge of the race. For Greg, and many of his counterparts, the race is sometimes more important than taking the checkered flag.

"I raced wheel-to-wheel with Mike Gillman for 20 minutes at Saddleback recently, and there wasn't more than five feet between all during that time," Greg said of a recent duel. "It was exciting and fun. I gained more experience in those 20 minutes than in any other race I've been in.

"I think we do it for the sheer enjoyment and challenge of the sport."

George has experienced some success at Pomona, winning two heat races and finishing second in a trophy dash. But main events are another matter.

Going into Saturday's third race of the four-race series, George is mired in the standings with 84 points. Craig Durfee leads the Super 1600 (single and two-seat racers) with 154 points, followed closely by Brian Harber.

part of the baseball season behind the plate, making some extra spending money by umpiring anywhere he could.

Six years of minor league baseball are behind him now. After working as a National League umpire during spring training this year, he was contacted and told he would get his shot at the big leagues under a 100-day option with the National League.

"There are only two of us under option this year," explained DeMuth, "and they expect at least two (umpires) to retire at the end of the season. They don't want to have to bring in two rookies next year, so hopefully they'll pull us in full-time." Called up the first of June, DeMuth got his trial by fire in San Diego.

"Everyone asks if you remember your first call in the big leagues. There's no way I'll forget it," DeMuth said sarcastically. "It was down in San Diego, in my very first inning, and I made a foul ball call. The next thing I know, here comes (Padres manager) Dick Williams out to argue. Yes, I'll remember that first call for a while."

Upland Legion tourney sports 16 teams

Sixteen teams, including defending champion Walnut Valley, make up the field for the 23rd annual Upland Legion Baseball Tournament July 1-4 at Memorial Park.

Two additional sites, Chaffey College and Ontario High School, will be used for the four-day event. Consolation and championship finals will be at Memorial Park Monday, July 4, at 5:30 and 8 p.m., respectively.

Two games will launch tourney activity Friday, July 1, with Walnut Valley facing Anaheim at 5:30 p.m., and host Upland taking on San Gorgonio at 8.

All three sites will be in use Saturday.

First-round games will pit Pomona vs. Redlands 650 at 10 a.m., and the Fullerton Angels vs. Chino at 12:30 p.m. at Memorial Park.

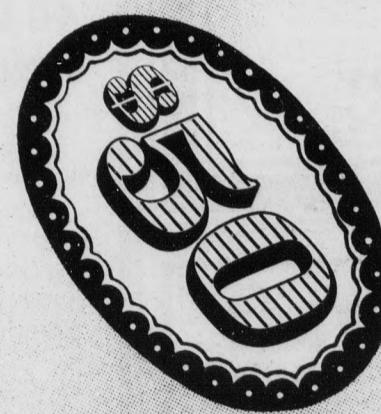

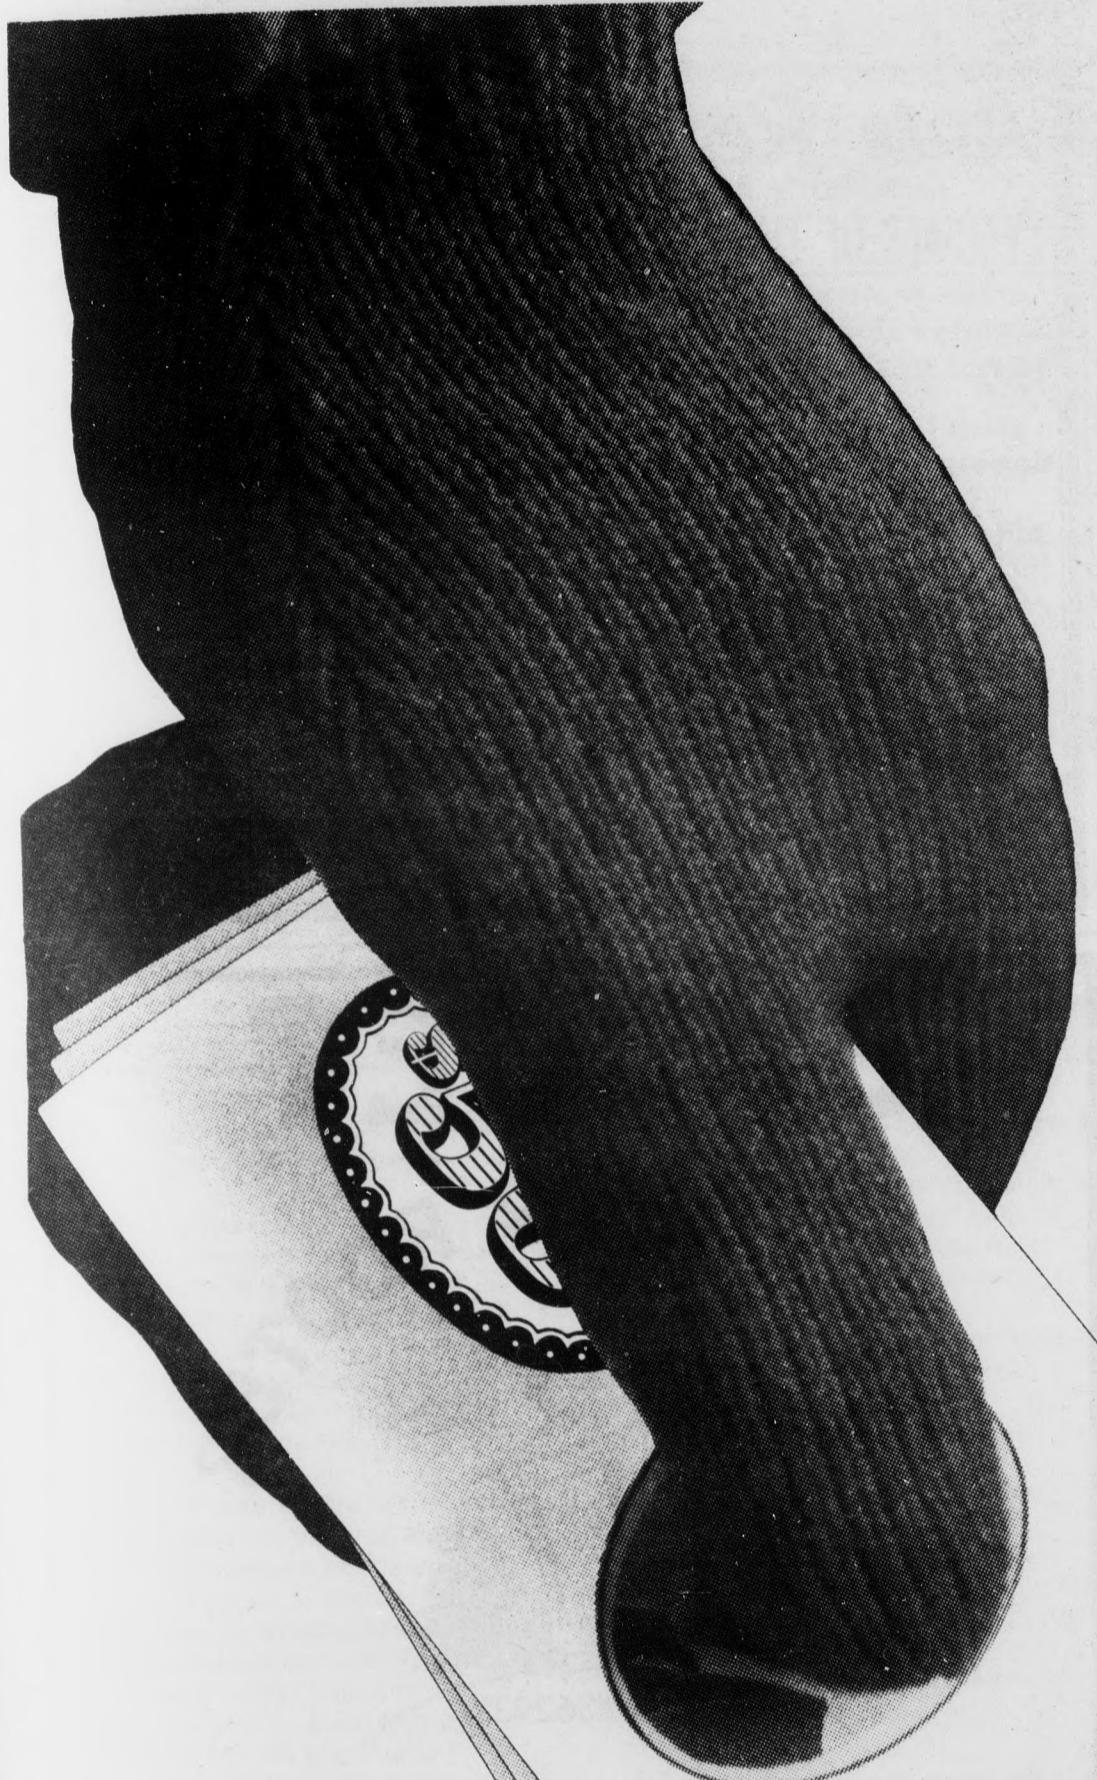

At Chaffey College, meantime, it will be Rialto vs. El Monte at 10 a.m. and Montclair vs. Redlands 106 at 12:30 p.m.

At Ontario, Corona faces Ontario at 10 a.m., and the Fullerton Dodgers meet Colton at 12:30 p.m.

All teams with the exception of those who played Friday night will see action twice on Saturday.

Sunday's competition will be held exclusively at Memorial.

BUY AN ENERGY EFFICIENT REFRIGERATOR.

Get Cold Cash.

It's important to look at operating costs and efficiency when shopping for a new refrigerator/freezer.

Why? Because the average unit accounts for up to 35% of your electricity bill.

If you're an Edison customer, Edison will help defray the cost of a new energy-efficient model by paying you $50 or $100 upon proof of purchase of any qualifying model.

Models 12 cubic feet or larger which are 20% more efficient than the applicable State Standard qualify for a $50 incentive. And if the model uses 960 kilowatt hours per year or less, it earns an additional bonus of $50.

To help you shop for your new appliance, or to help you wisely use the refrigerator you now have, we have prepared a new booklet, "Cold Cash." This book gives you tips on wise use and includes a list of refrigerators that are eligible for these cash incentives.

The booklet is available from your local Edison office, at participating dealers or by calling Edison toll-free 1-800-952-5062.

You have the power to hold down your electricity bills. Make your next refrigerator an energy-efficient model. And get cold cash from us. Meantime, thanks for all your conservation efforts.

Retirees provide manpower for business

Planning Commissioner and silent partner Herman Rempel's general contractor's license.

"We'll go out on the smallest of jobs," West said. "From leaky water faucets to roof shingling to formica work."

Since work is charged for by the hour — and there is a two-hour minimum fee to cover travel — West urges customers to find two hours worth of duties to keep his employee's occupied.

West said he has encountered no pressure from unions alleging he is taking away work from union employees.

"We do the little jobs no one else really wants to get involved in," West said. "We'll even do the low end maintenance type things like street cleaning."

"The young people hired for those (low maintenance) wages don't like the menial work. And the main thing is we get work for senior citizens."

West also employs retired bookkeepers and clerical aides.

The men and women who work for West set their own hours. While some are interested in a full 40-hour schedule, many only dab at the chores for four hours a week.

West limits the worktime so it won't jeopardize

Social Security or insurance benefits which limit a person's income.

While it would seem to be the ideal situation for retirees, West said he still has trouble filling the three to four requests per day for work, all of which are provided via word-of-mouth.

"There are a lot of people sitting at home that think retirement is driving them nuts," West explained. "The trouble is finding those people."

"Our fellows feel it's worthwhile. They can have something to do that makes their minds feel better. A lot of people are afraid to get into working again because they think it will turn into 40 hours a week." □

Pet of the week

Both nameless and homeless, this four month old Spaniel mix is looking for place to rest his muzzle and a family to love.

If this looks like the pet for you, call Joy 982-1909.

This is only one of the animals available for adoption at the shelter, on Campus, north of Foothill, south of 16th Street.

Bear Gulch: bears are gone but tales remain

"It was kind of an accident that I got into the restaurant business," he admitted. "I was going to be an engineer."

Hoping to preserve the gulch's open space, Hinrichsen bought up most of the undeveloped land around him.

"We have no plans for it," he said.

Billy Rubottom opened his Mountain View Inn as a stop on the old Butterfield Stage line into Los Angeles.

Because it offered the first sign of civilization, the inn became a popular stopover for travelers and revelers.

Not surprisingly, a number of legends grew up around Billy and his establishment. He apparently saved Dona Merced — the area's matriarchal figure at the time — from getting lynched and his inn became a gathering place for Confederate sympathizers during the Civil War.

Thanks to a creek springing out of Red Hill, Billy was blessed with the water he needed to run the place.

The site of his original inn is commemorated by the statue of Oso Bear — about the only bear seen in Bear Gulch for more than 20 years.

There's no shortage of bears in Bert Francis' office.

Vistors can wrestle with bears made from wood, stone, clay or paint — Francis has one slightly menacing Grizzly carved by a Tongan artisan.

Bears once found the gulch a good fishing spot.

"Bill Gruber (of Gruber Olive fame) once caught fish right out there," Francis said, pointing to a spot halfway into the Sycamore Inn's parking lot.

West Cucamonga Creek still flows year-round through Bear Gulch, occasionally overflowing its banks. Although the trout fishing has gone downhill, kids still scramble for pollywogs along the creekbank.

A stone's throw from busy Foothill Boulevard, Francis' office once competed with the Sycamore Inn for hungry customers. The cafe soon gave way to a real estate office.

"I opened up the shop and decided to call it Bear Gulch Realty," Francis said. "But that sounded kinda rough so I called it Realty at Bear Gulch."

He plans to construct a new building on some nearby vacant land, but sentimentality keeps him from tearing down the old office.

"I'm going to try to move it," he said.

Francis has a theory why Bear Gulch was passed over when the urban wave reached Cucamonga.

"This area went from 3,000 to 60,000 people but there just wasn't anything developable here."

As a result, Bear Gulch looks much the same as it did 50 years ago.

Time has left plenty of relics on Dean Brodigan's property. He's got an old swimming pool and the remains of a miniature golf course to prove it.

"This was one of the first miniature golf courses in the area," Brodigan said. "People didn't even know what miniature golf was."

Since the building once served as headquarters for a pool company, there was an empty swimming pool to contend with when Brodigan moved his tire service in.

The hole fit nicely into the role of a mechanic's pit.

"It makes it very accessible for motor homes," he said.

Tromping through the nearby fields, Brodigan has picked up a number of historical artifacts.

"This place is just full of history," he says. "It's a heck of a good location. It's in the country a little bit and it's nice to have the fields around."

Dean's wife Colleen has also gotten a feel for the area.

"I've started my own little collection of bears," she said. □

Public Notice

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING ON A PROPOSED DEVELOPMENT PLAN FOR THE CANYON RIDGE COMMUNITY DEVELOPMENT PROJECT OF THE UPLAND COMMUNITY REDEVELOPMENT AGENCY AND AN ENVIRONMENTAL IMPACT REPORT RELATED THERETO AND OF THE ADOPTION AND AVAILABILITY FOR PUBLIC INSPECTION OF RULES IMPLEMENTING OWNER PARTICIPATION IN CONNECTION WITH SAID PROPOSED PLAN AND EXTENDING REASONABLE PREFERENCE TO PERSONS IN BUSINESS IN THE PROPOSED DEVELOPMENT PROJECT AREA TO RE-ENTER IN BUSINESS WITHIN THAT AREA.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that at 7:00 p.m. on June 27, 1983, at the Council Chambers of Upland City Hall, 460 North Euclid Avenue, Upland, California, a joint public hearing of the Council of the City of Upland and the Upland Community Redevelopment Agency will be held to consider a proposed development plan for the proposed Canyon Ridge Community Development Project Area within the City of Upland, the specific boundaries of which are set forth on Appendix "A" attached hereto.

Generally, the scope and objectives of said proposed development plan are as follows:

The Development Plan for the Canyon Ridge Community Development Project of the Upland Community Redevelopment Agency is prepared by said Agency and is in conformance to and controlled by the General Plan of the City of Upland and all other applicable federal, state, and local laws and ordinances. The plan is based upon the Preliminary Plan adopted by the Planning Commission of the City of Upland on March 24, 1983. The project covered by the plan, including streets, consists of approximately 350 acres. The objective of the plan is to eliminate blighting conditions (inadequate storm drains & streets) in the project area by providing public improvements of regional benefit, including storm drain facilities and arterial streets, thereby mitigating under utilization of land caused by inadequate public facilities of a regional nature.

The development plan describes and depicts the project area, delineates development objectives and actions proposed for implementation thereof in the project area and delineates proposed public improvements. In addition, the plan covers methods for financing the project.

Any and all persons having any objections to said proposed development plan or who deny the existence of blight in the proposed project area, or the regularity of any of the prior proceedings, may appear before the Council of the City of Upland at the time, date and place set forth herein and show cause why said proposed development plan should not be adopted.

Notice is given hereby that the Redevelopment Agency and the City Council will conduct a public hearing on an environmental impact report on the subject of said development plan at the time, date and place set forth above. Draft copies of said environmental impact report now are available at the Upland City Hall, 460 North Euclid Avenue, Upland, California.

Notice is also given hereby that the Upland Community Redevelopment Agency has adopted rules to implement the operation of owner participation in connection with said proposed development plan and extending reasonable preference to persons in business in the proposed project area to re-enter in business within the development area and that said rules are available for public inspection at the Upland City Hall, 460 North Euclid Avenue, Upland, California.
